Behavioral model editor

Georg Jung

March 20, 2013

Abstract

The original Cadena featured only structural modeling. However, a generic, abstract, behavioral specification in form of activity graphs will mark an important step towards pure model driven development (where actual coding can be reduced to a minimum or even eliminated). In this project, graph-based and form-based editors for behavioral modeling based on lightweight process coordination will be implemented.